

RUSSIANS ARE AGAIN LOSERS

Attack on the Japanese Fleet Results in Serious Damage to Their Own.

A FINE BATTLESHIP GOES DOWN

One Cruiser Is Shot So Full of Holes That It Sinks, While Another Is Very Badly Crippled.

(Special by Scripps-Mellae.)

Chefoo, July 25.—The Russians and the Japanese have come to close grips at last. Only meager details have yet been received here, but they indicate that the most fearful struggle of a generation is now in progress around Hai-Cheng, in Manchuria. There has been skirmishing around Hai Cheng and Kailchou for days, but that is over with, and the big battle between 144,000 Japanese under the master strategist, General Kuroki, and a force of almost equal strength, commanded by General Kurapatkin, began three days ago.

Twenty-five Miles of Fighting
The line of battle between the two great armies is twenty-five miles long, and the country is rough, making the advance of the Japanese, who are on the aggressive, extremely difficult and fraught with terrible losses in killed and wounded. In addition to the force he has on his front, the czar's commander in chief has been attacked on his left flank by an army of unknown strength under General Nodza, and, like a rat in a corner, is fighting for his life.

Made Gallant Stand
Such reports as have reached here say that in the first day's fighting the Russians made a gallant stand, and time after time repulsed the fabled rushes of the mikado's troops, mowing them down in rows with machine guns, until the brown men were forced to draw off for the night.

On the second day, after seeping the Russian lines with artillery fire, the Japanese again rushed forward and drove the Russians back with tremendous losses of killed, wounded and prisoners. The Russians showed every whit of the bravery of the Japs, but they were outnumbered and outnumbered. They stood by their guns until bayoneted by their enemies, and they made the victory of the islanders a costly one.

Issue of the Third Day's Fight
The issue of the third day's fight is not yet known. It began at daylight, with an artillery duel, and an advance all along the line of the Japanese front. The last dispatch received here says that in addition to the frontal attack the Russians were also attacked on the left flank, which is taken to mean that a junction of the armies of General Kuroki and General Nodza had been effected.

If such is the case, General Kurapatkin's whole force is at the mercy of his foe, and will either be cut to pieces and driven into a retreat or captured. The weight of artillery was with the Japanese, as well as the superiority of numbers, and the only outcome seems to be the worst defeat the Russian arms have ever known.

Would Give Japs Manchuria
The defeat of General Kurapatkin and the annihilation of his army would give the Japanese possession of all Manchuria, which they can then take at their leisure.

The fighting of the great battle of the war now is the result of the remarkable strategy of General Kuroki, who has at every stage of the war outgeneraled his opponents. It has been the Russian intention not to risk a decisive action until late in the summer, in August or September, and at the place selected by the commander of the czar's forces. But the swiftness with which the mikado's officers carried their armies forward left the Russians no alternative but to fight or abandon the territory.

Details of Naval Battle
Tokio, June 25.—A dispatch received here states that the Port Arthur naval fight was the result of a dash for the south by sixteen Russian warships on Thursday night. The escaping ships were discovered by the Japanese patrolboat and Admiral Togo was warned by a wireless message.

Togo advanced with the entire fleet. The Russians stopped outside the harbor entrance after nightfall and the fleet of Japanese destroyers attacked, torpedoing and sinking a battleship of the Porosvict type and disabling the battleship Sovostopol. A cruiser of the Niann type was towed into the harbor Friday morning, evidently badly damaged. The Japanese ships sustained little or no damage, though the torpedo-boat-destroyer, Shiwakumpu, was hit by a shell and three killed, and three wounded. The Chadori of the same class was hit behind the engine-room, but no casualties resulted; two torpedo boats were slightly damaged.

Fighting Now
St. Petersburg, June 25.—An unnamed Russian general is quoted in the Viedomosti today as declaring that this evening a great battle is being fought; adding that General Kurapatkin is hoping to meet Gen. Kuroki, whom he will dispose of before Gen. Oku has arrived.

Landing Troops
Tokio, June 25.—A detachment of Japanese troops which landed at Takushan surprised a squadron of Russian cavalry June 22d near Santapu and routed them. They also occupied the heights north of Santapu expelling the enemy. The Russians left sixty dead on the battlefield.

More Fighting
Chefoo, June 25.—It is reported here that a Japanese torpedo boat, which had been sent in by Admiral Togo to sound the Port Arthur channel preparatory to another attempt to send in fireships to block it, had been sunk by the fire from the forts.

Others of the flotilla made their escape under a heavy fire from the Japanese battleships. No news has reached here for several days as to the movements on the land side of Port Arthur.

Vessels passing the Kwan Tung peninsula, however, declare that the firing of heavy guns is continuous, and at night vessels just outside the Japanese blockading line can see the flashes of artillery close to the fortifications, which indicate that the Japanese have made a secure lodgment within striking distance of the fortress. Arrivals here from Kai Chow say that the Russians are preparing to evacuate that place and estimate the number of Japanese closing in on it from the south and east at more than 100,000, with hundreds of guns.

Stackelberg now, they say, has no more than 30,000 effective men.
Rome, June 25.—Advices received by the government late last night from Tokio state that transports with 10,000 men and forty-eight field guns have left Sasebo to reinforce the combined armies of Generals Kuroki and Oku. The transports are stated to be under convoy of a Japanese squadron.

Russian Fleet Loses Heavily
Tokio, June 25.—Russia's fleet at Port Arthur has met disaster in a battle that it opened itself against the Japanese squadron on guard outside the harbor. The Russians steamed out of the harbor and attacked the Japanese Thursday.

Admiral Togo's naval engines of death and destruction instantly turned loose their mightiest forces. As a result one magnificent Russian battleship of the Porosvict type was sunk, another of the Savastopol type was shot full of holes and made a helpless cripple and a cruiser of the Diana type was damaged beyond hope of repair. The Japanese suffered no loss of ships.

Little Damage to Jap Ships.
News of the battle and the victory for the Japanese comes from Admiral Togo himself. He announces that his own squadron was practically undamaged by the fire of the Russians. He gives no details of the battle, but it is presumed that the Russians fought desperately, since Admiral Togo's report shows that some shots from the enemy's guns struck his warships.

It is believed the Russians intended to make a dash for Vladivostok, when they emerged from the harbor, but finding the Japanese watch dogs in front of them, determined on a bold conflict in the open sea.

Attack on Port Arthur.
Chefoo, June 25.—Heavy firing was heard in the direction of Port Arthur during several hours Thursday night and Friday morning. This is apparently the result of the third demonstration of the Japanese fleet off Port Arthur since Wednesday. Most of the firing has been done on land and this may indicate a land attack on the fortress.

The first recent firing at Port Arthur began June 22, when at 8:30 o'clock at night the Russian forts started to belch shot and shell and flash searchlights to sea, as if they had sighted torpedo craft and other warships. The firing continued till 2:30 a. m., with a repetition of the same tactics the two following nights.

Kurapatkin Falls Back.
St. Petersburg, June 25.—Official dispatches from the seat of war indicate that Gen. Kurapatkin has decided to withdraw the Russian troops and give the Japanese uncontested possession of all the northern part of the Liao-Tung peninsula and of New-Chwang. It had been expected that the Russian commander in chief would fight the combined armies of Gen. Oku and Kuroki at Kai-Chou, but Gen. Kurapatkin decided not to risk an engagement at that point. The Russian troops will be ordered to desert New-Chwang and move north to join Kurapatkin's main army. Gen. Stukelberg's troops that have been resisting the advance of Gen. Oku are gradually falling back after seemingly useless battles.

THE ROAD TO PORT ARTHUR

STEPHENSON IS PROMISED PLACE

Governor, It Is Said, Will Make Him United States Senator.

(Special to The Gazette.)
Madison, Wis., June 25.—From a source very close to the governor the information was obtained today that definite pledges have been made to Isaac Stephenson of Marinette, that he shall be elected United States senator if the La Follette people control the legislature. This is the secret, it is said, of Mr. Stephenson's willingness to follow the La Follette leadership to its present independent situation.

AWFUL DISASTER TO A FERRYBOAT

A Hundred and Sixty Passengers Are Drowned in a Fatality Near St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg, June 25.—The bottom of a ferry boat which was crossing the Kheper river fell out this morning and a hundred and sixty passengers were drowned.

BADGERS STAND LONG TRIP WELL

Western Oarsmen Not Hurt by Travel—Arrive at Poughkeepsie.

(Special by Scripps-Mellae.)
Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 25.—The Badger oarsmen arrived at Poughkeepsie yesterday afternoon at 3:30, the train being an hour late. The condition of the men, after a few hours of rest, warrant the statement that they have made the trip in better shape than ever before. None of the men appear to have lost weight and all feel full of life and spirit. On the trip being cool and the connections for meals being such that the men were able to eat at the usual hours. After the arrival here the boats, and luggage were taken across the river to the bathhouse at Fox's Point and the men went up to the quarters.

Today the boats will be rigged and a light paddle in the afternoon will be all that will be required of the men. Besides the men rowing in the varsity and four, Johnson, Hetzel and Len, the latter stroke of the freshman boat, were brought along as substitutes.

QUESTIONING EYES ON A LOCAL LODGE

State Convention of Elks Grieved That Janesville and Marinette Were Only Cities Not Sending Delegates

Leslie Glover of New Richmond who has stopped over in Janesville on his way home from the state convention of the Elks at Fond du Lac says that the Janesville and Marinette lodges were the only ones not represented at the big gathering. The two branches of the order in question are not affiliated with the state organization but have hitherto sent their delegations to the meetings. The Elks magazine published in Milwaukee inaugurated a voting contest for the most popular member in Wisconsin, ten votes being allowed for each new subscription. B. H. Baldwin of the Janesville lodge received fifty votes. The next state meeting will be held at Madison and an effort will be made to gather the two lodges mentioned into the fold in the meantime.

CAMPAIGN STARTS FOR THE SUMMER

Both the Governor's Committee and the Republicans Are at Work.

(Special to The Gazette.)
Madison, Wis., June 25.—The La Follette campaign in Wisconsin against the regular party organization and the democrats will be conducted in the contemplation of Governor La Follette that it will be the opening wedge for a new alignment of the political parties of the United States. The campaign is already on, but the formal opening gun will not be fired for several weeks. At present the administration is preparing literature to be used in the "educational" campaign. The spellbinding will come later.

Governor La Follette, in his speech to a great conference of state employees and other administration men, declared that the railroads and great corporations were dominating the national republican party and that these interests, had they dared, would gladly have defeated President Roosevelt for the nomination in the Chicago convention.

The central committee of the conservative faction will meet shortly on the call of Chairman Theo. W. Goldin of Janesville, and two campaign committees, one republican, the other claiming to be republican, will be in operation. The regular committee will have the prestige of the Chicago convention and the assistance of the national organization. Many observers say the only result of this situation will be a victory for the democrats in Wisconsin this fall.

While the amount of riding in country districts has fallen off somewhat, says the Edgerton Tobacco Reporter, the movement is still going on. The American Cigar Co. are the most active buyers now in the field and their agents are picking up a good deal of tobacco in the aggregate. The amount left in country hands is becoming pretty well reduced to scattering lots. The Bamberger firm is said to have closed a deal for the purchase of two packings of Vernon county 1903 goods, the Hoscobal packing of Belknap and Viroqua packing of Belknap.

The planting of the new crop is being pushed forward as rapidly as weather will permit, though it is doubtful if over half the intended acreage is yet out. A fine rain Monday succeeded by cool days has favored a good stand in the fields.

MAN AND WOMAN BATTLE FOR LIFE IN SKYSCRAPER

After Trying to Throw Miss Alvord From Window, Detroit Shoots Her and Jumps to Street.

Detroit, Mich., June 25.—Charles A. Swayse, former assistant superintendent of the house of correction, engaged in a desperate struggle in a locked room on the eleventh floor of the Chamber of Commerce Building with Miss Edie A. Alvord, tried twice to throw her from a window, shot her in the neck and arm, fired a bullet into his own head and jumped or fell to the pavement, 105 feet below, being dashed to death in full view of hundreds of shoppers. The woman will recover.

The struggle in the room was witnessed by persons in buildings across the street. They say Miss Alvord was twice forced almost out of the window, but saved her life by clinging to the easement. It is not clear whether Swayse lost his life in trying to escape to the floor below or committed suicide.

Swayse was 53 years old and left a widow and two children. His acquaintance with Miss Alvord began at the house of correction, where both once were employed. Miss Alvord, who is 23 years old, says Swayse had threatened her and she called at his office to break with him.

RAISULI FREES HIS CAPTIVES

Perdicaris and Varley Return to Tangier After Long Captivity Among Brigands.

MOORISH ATTENDANTS SHOW JOY

Kiss the Hands of Their Masters—Englishman Appears in Good Health; His Companion Seems to Have Aged Decidedly.

Tangier, June 25.—Bandit Raisuli's victims, Ion Perdicaris and Cromwell Varley, who were kidnapped last May, and for whom a ransom of $70,000 was demanded, arrived here soon after midnight Friday. The delay in turning over the prisoners apparently was due to a mistake as to the date of their release.

Perdicaris is much fatigued after his long ride, but says he is glad to get back. He is greatly pleased with the reception accorded him by the townsmen, who met him in great numbers.

Perdicaris suffered many hardships while in the hands of Raisuli, although he says he does not think that these were the fault of the bandit chief, and that he had every comfort possible under the circumstances.

Varley appears to be as cheerful as if he had just returned from a picnic. Both Perdicaris and Varley are much thinner, especially the former, who has aged considerably.

Reception to Perdicaris.

Perdicaris was received at his town house by the authorities, the admirals of the fleets and numerous personal friends. His Moorish servants made a great demonstration of joy, kissing their master's hands and clothes.

Much credit is due to the two sheriffs of Wazan, Mulai Ali and Mulai Hamet, who have devoted much time in their efforts to secure the success of the negotiations. Mulai Ali remained at Raisuli's camp continuously, thus insuring the safety of the lives of the captives, while Mulai Hamet traveled back and forth between Tangier and Denairas.

Mulai Hamet says he arrived at the camp of Zela, governor of the Beni m'Sara tribe, at 3 o'clock on June 23, but that the captives did not arrive until the morning of June 24. Nothing unusual occurred during the exchange of the prisoners, who started immediately for their respective homes.

Story of the Case.

Ion Perdicaris, who is a citizen of the United States, an heir to the fortune of the late John D. Rockefeller, was kidnapped from his home just outside Tangier on the evening of May 18. In his letter Raisuli demanded $70,000 cash ransom, the release of all his followers in prison, the removal of the governor of Tangier, and the withdrawal of all the sultan's troops in Raisuli's district.

The American and British consuls conducted negotiations for the release of the two men until Rear Admiral Chadwick, in command of the American fleet, arrived at Tangier May 31. Negotiations dragged along until June 22, when Secretary Hay sent his ultimatum: "Perdicaris live or Raisuli dead." This spurred the sultan to action, and the prisoners were surrendered to the ransom party.

MIGHT, NOT RIGHT, IS TO BE LA FOLLETTE SLOGAN

Meeting Held at Madison Yesterday of the State Office Holders Who Seek to Perpetuate Their Own Power.

(By Staff Correspondent.)
Madison, June 25.—If determination and bitterness at the national republican party can elect Robert M. La Follette governor of this state he will be the next chief executive of Wisconsin despite all the efforts of the regular republican party. Leaving Chicago after having heaped insults upon the committee of the national convention the administration crowd have hurried to Madison where yesterday afternoon and evening they held a love feast in the capitol guarded by the capitol police to keep any but the initiated outside the pale of the property owned and controlled by the state at large but now used for the private purposes of Robert M. La Follette. To an audience composed of some hundred state office holders the governor made two elaborate addresses yesterday which were conducive of stirring the men who seek the public pay, into a state of frenzy that they might do deeds which would enable them to continue their present positions.

Many Absent
But many of the La Follette leaders were noticeable by their absence. Hon. Isaac Stephenson, whose money barrel, it is hoped will furnish most of the shew of war for the fight against republicanism, and state Senator Stout, were not present. Their absence, however, was made up by the presence of the state office holders from all parts of the state. As one prominent office holder said last night after the meeting, "No matter what the national committee says or what the supreme court says, we are the republican party of Wisconsin." Law and party usage are to these men unknown quantities. Might not right is to be their war cry and by the liberal expenditure of a campaign fund to which every man who believes as the governor does will be asked to contribute they hope to win their victory at the polls next November.

To Organize
The slogan yesterday was "organization." Evidently the reports from the different portions of the state to the effect that many of the hitherto unapproachable have decided that party pride was greater than personal ambition have begun to arrive and the necessity of a new organization is apparent. However, it was decided to establish La Follette clubs in every city and town where enough of the faithful could be gathered together to make such an organization possible. Two state headquarters are to be established as soon as the funds can be secured. One is to be in Madison under Chairman Connor of the committee and the other in Milwaukee under the charge of Henry Coehms. It is stated by those in authority that the speaking will not begin until late in August as the governor has several lucrative engagements to fulfill at assemblies and chautauques during July.

INSIDE TRUTHS UNKNOWN BEFORE

EX-PRESIDENT CLEVELAND AT LAST BREAKS SILENCE.

WRITES ON THE DEBS STRIKE

He Explains Why He Ordered Out the Government Troops in the Riots of 1893.

Grover Cleveland, former president of the United States, tells the story of the great Pullman strike of 1894 in Chicago, and the measures to suppress it which were adopted by the United States government. In the July number of McClure's Magazine, the article reveals Richard Olney, attorney general, as the president's leading adviser for the exercise of federal power, and contains many interesting state papers.

Eugene V. Debs, the directing force in the strike, the ex-president plainly considers a willful violator of the law and the head of a conspiracy against interstate commerce and the transmission of mails.

Concerning John P. Altgeld, who, as governor of Illinois, sought to keep federal troops out of the state, Mr. Cleveland's opinion is revealed in this passage:

"The constitution requires that the United States shall protect each of the states against invasion, and on application of the legislature or of the executive (when the legislature cannot be convened), against domestic violence. There was plenty of domestic violence in the city of Chicago and in the state of Illinois during the early days of July, 1894, but no application was made to the federal government for assistance."

In the introduction to his story the former president fixes upon the year 1894 as "the most turbulent and anxious year" of his second administration. After recounting the many difficulties of his office and of the country he passes to an account of the events leading up to the sending of troops to Chicago.

"In the last days of June, 1894," he writes, "a very determined and ugly labor disturbance broke out in the city of Chicago. Almost in a night it grew to full proportions of unrelenting violence and danger. Rioting and violence were its early accompaniments, and it spread so swiftly that within a few days it had reached nearly the entire western and southwestern sections of our country. Railroad transportation was especially involved in its attacks. The carriage of the United States mails was interrupted. Interstate commerce was obstructed and railroad property was riotously destroyed."

"In the last days of June, 1894," he writes, "a very determined and ugly labor disturbance broke out in the city of Chicago. Almost in a night it grew to full proportions of unrelenting violence and danger. Rioting and violence were its early accompaniments, and it spread so swiftly that within a few days it had reached nearly the entire western and southwestern sections of our country. Railroad transportation was especially involved in its attacks. The carriage of the United States mails was interrupted. Interstate commerce was obstructed and railroad property was riotously destroyed."

"No force less than the regular troops of the United States can procure the passage of the mail trains and enforce the orders of the courts." The dispatch was endorsed by Judge Grosscup and by Edwin Walker and Thomas E. Mitchell, attorneys.

General Miles in Charge
Two days before the sending of Marshal Arnold's dispatch, according to the narrative, orders had been issued to General Miles to arrange for the transportation of the troops at Fort Sheridan to Chicago. July 1 General Miles arrived in Chicago and took personal command.

Notwithstanding the efforts of the troops to preserve peace, rioting increased, and July 8 an executive proclamation was issued commanding dispersion of all persons engaged in unlawful actions. July 10 Eugene V. Debs and other officers of the union were arrested on indictments charging them with "complicity in the obstruction of mails and interstate commerce."

Three days later the special counsel expressed the opinion that the strike was practically broken. The second arrest of Debs and his associates, then at liberty on bonds, on the charge of conspiracy of course ended everything, and July 20 the last of the troops were withdrawn from Chicago.

Concerning the sending of officers to jail for contempt, Mr. Cleveland says: "Instead of giving bail for their freedom pending the investigation of this charge against them, as they were invited to do, they preferred to be committed to custody—perhaps intending by such an act of martyrdom either to revive a waning cause or to create a plausible and justifying excuse for the collapse of their already foredoomed movement. Debs himself, in speaking of this event afterward, said: 'As soon as the employees found that we were arrested and taken from the scene of action they became demoralized, and that ended the strike.'"

Ex-Altgeld
A synopsis of Governor Altgeld's dispatch, which the writer pronounced "remarkable" and President Cleveland's reply follows: "It became at once evident," says the narrative, "that the governor was unwilling to allow the matter to issue between us to rest without a renewal of argument and protest. On the 7th day of July he addressed to me another long telegraphic communication, evidently intended to be more severely accusatory and insistent than its predecessor."

The dispatch closed with the governor's demand that the troops be withdrawn. Mr. Cleveland confesses that his "patience was somewhat strained" when he sent to the governor the answer that suggested:

"In this hour of danger and public distress discussion may well give way to active efforts on the part of all in authority to restore obedience to law and to protect life and property."

Sustained by Court
The final decision of the United States supreme court in the Debs case, read by Justice Brewer, upholding the action of Judge Grosscup and the commitment to jail of Debs, is commented upon by Mr. Cleveland as follows:

"In the opinion read by the learned justice, the inherent power of the government to execute by means of physical force through its official agents, on every foot of American soil the powers and functions belonging to it, was amply vindicated by a process of reasoning, simple, logical, unhampered by fanciful distinctions, and absolutely conclusive; and the government's resort to the court, the injunction issued in its aid, and all the proceedings thereon, including the imprisonment of Debs and his associates, were fully approved."

Concluding the supreme court of the United States has written the concluding words of this history, tragical in many of its details, and in every line provoking sober reflection. As we gratefully turn its concluding page, those most nearly related by executive responsibility to the troubled days whose story is told, may well congratulate themselves, especially on their participation in marking out the way and clearing the path, now unchangeably established, which shall hereafter guide our nation safely and surely in the exercise of its functions, which represent the people's trust."

HORSE TRADERS GET INTO JUSTICE COURT

F. A. Taylor Brings Suit to Recover
From Erstwhile Owner of an Unmanageable Nag.

Because the horse received in a trade appears not to have been the kind of a quadruped it was represented to be, F. A. Taylor has commenced a suit on a breach of warranty against E. U. Smith of the town of Rock. The case will be tried before a jury in Justice Reeder's court on the 30th of June. The plaintiff claims that the nag was not meek and gentle but on the contrary proceeded to wreck a costly vehicle with his hind feet when the first effort to drive him was made. Justice Earle will represent Mr. Taylor and Attorney Maxfield the defendant.

Petition Relative to Private Thoroughfare Adjoining Hayes Block,
To Be Presented to Council.

At the next meeting of the common council a petition calling on the city to purchase the right of way in the alley adjoining the Hayes block and connecting Milwaukee and Court streets, will probably be presented. While this sixteen-foot thoroughfare has been open for years, it is private property owned by Hayes Bros., R. M. Bostwick, J. M. Bostwick, Charles and W. B. Conrad, Hamilton Richardson, the Laphin estate, and the M. E. church. To make it a public highway is likely to involve a considerable expenditure.

SUGAR BEETS ARE A PASSING FANCY

J. W. Coon of Edgerton, Believes the Farmers Will Return to Tobacco Growing.

J. W. Coon, editor of the Wisconsin Tobacco Reporter of Edgerton, is in Milwaukee. Speaking of the crop conditions, according to the Milwaukee Sentinel, Mr. Coon said: "The status of the tobacco crop at this time is excellent, and there is likelihood that this year's yield will secure the highest prices of any crop for many years past. This is owing to the decreased acreage devoted to tobacco this spring, because of the sugar beet growing which the farmers are trying everywhere, when their location warrants it. I do not believe that this will have anything more than a temporary effect, as the sugar beet is only an experiment and has its drawbacks as well as any other crop."

"Many farmers are disgusted with it already. Last year there were about 300 acres of beets shipped from Edgerton, and there was a great delay and loss of time and money in the inability of the railroads to handle so much at one time. This year the prospect is that there will be fully 1,000 carloads, and the delays in getting the crop to the factories will be greater than ever."

"Many farmers have planted as much as twenty to thirty acres of beets, and unless the crop turns out well the losses are liable to be large. Farmers around Edgerton have made good money out of tobacco, and the introduction of sugar beets will, I believe, have only a temporary effect. Growers will return to the old standby after awhile."

the Flowers That Have Been Set Out There.

Frequenters of the various parks of the city, where flowers have been set out, should appreciate the fact that these flowers have been planted for their pleasure and with the expectation that everyone will unite in protecting and preserving them. The attention of the Gazette has been called by members of the park board to the fact that some people are extremely careless and have trampled upon and ruined valuable plants, which were set out this season at considerable expense.

A little thoughtful consideration on the part of the park visitors will encourage the board to still more and more beautify the parks year by year and make them bright oases in the life of the city.

ALL MEN SHOULD KNOW OF THE DEFECTS IN OUR POSTAL SERVICE.

The United States Post Office Department has for nearly a year past been constantly under fire from guns of large calibre, loud noise and considerable execution. In the old-fashioned bombardments of cities, breaches were made in the walls through which the enemy might find entrance and through which at least the operations of the people within could be observed. New-fashioned guns carry further and hit harder. The modern shell fired from a distance of fifteen miles, striking in the heart of a city, would probably reduce everything contained on a square mile of ground to impalpable atoms.

The effects of the bombardments of the Post Office Department have not been to annihilate it. But serious breaches have been made and the SENTRY has taken a view of things going on within which carry conviction that there are many faults in this boasted system.

One of the postal branches not specifically involved in the "scandals," but brought under observation directly thereby and directly by other means, is the money order system. This business, which is no part of the original post office plan, is growing so vast and developing so many defects that earnest efforts are being made to devise an acceptable substitute for at least the smaller denominations.

The postal money order service is admittedly complicated and cumbersome of the people. The process of procuring at the Post Office a money order, with all the red tape surrounding that process, has long been a cause of complaint to patrons. The following dialogue, said to be the record of an actual transaction, pointedly illustrates some of the inconveniences which people suffer:

"I want to get a money order," she said.

"Please make out the application," replied the clerk.

"What application? I just want to send fifteen dollars to—"

"Please out the blank."

"I—I—will you please fill it out for me?"

"I can't. It's against the rules."

"Oh, dear me, I don't believe I can. What do you do first?"

"Write the date."

"Now let me see, is this the tenth or the eleventh?"

"The tenth."

"I thought so, but I wasn't sure. What do I do now?"

"Write the amount to be sent."

"It's fifteen dollars."

"Well, write it on the next blank line."

"How easy it is after all. Now what do I do?"

And so it goes, until each particular blank has been laboriously filled in by the fair one, at the dictation of the long-suffering clerk. This is perhaps an extreme case, but under the most favorable circumstances there is a vexatious loss of time in securing these orders at the post office. It has been estimated that at least half an hour is wasted by every purchaser of a money order, including the time lost in going to the office waiting for the order, and returning to the starting point. This seems to be a low average, but as forty-six million money orders were issued in the United States last year, even on this basis twenty-three million hours of time was lost to the productive industry of the country, in going through the process of purchasing them. Allowing ten hours for a day's work, three hundred days in a year, the labor of nearly eight thousand men for one year was lost to the country in the long-suffering clerk. This is the additional loss of time accruing to those who collected the orders at post offices, was another serious item.

Besides these losses of time and patience to the people, it has been officially demonstrated that the entire money order service is conducted at a heavy cost to the government beyond its returns in revenue. Reports of the Auditor for the Post Office Department show that the ascertainable expenditures for money order business by the Department exceed the receipts therefrom by more than $500,000 per annum. There are various other items of expense not accurately ascertainable, which would largely increase this loss.

The most unprofitable feature of the system is the issue and payment of orders of the smaller denominations. Nearly quite one-half of the forty-six million orders annually issued are for less than $2.50 each. On these the government receives a fee of three cents each, all of which it pays to the issuing postmasters if of the third or fourth class. Postmasters of the first and second class do not receive the fees, but are allowed the compensation for clerks who do this work at an estimated cost of more than double the fee thus received. Hence, all the clerical work at the paying post offices and the accounting office at Washington, is done at a total loss.

The use of post check currency, which has been almost unanimously approved by the press of the country, and which is provided for in a bill now pending in Congress, would reduce the people from this great inconvenience and the government from these losses. It is hoped and believed that at no distant day the bill, which was last year recommended by the Post Office Committee of the House of Representatives, will be favorably acted upon by our national legislators.

OLD FOGY HAS A FEW REMARKS NOW

DISCUSSES SEVERAL SUBJECTS ABOUT CITY.

NEW MUSEUM AND DEPOTS

Old Grumbler Approves of the Plans for Museum, and Thinks Depots Look Pretty.

To the Editor:

I see that I am not the only one to call attention to the necessity of a better police protection of the city. The observer in an article in Friday morning's paper calls particular attention to the condition of the Court House park in the evenings. One lady who lives near this park told a friend recently that in the several years she had lived where she does now she had never seen so many drunken persons and so many rough, persons hanging about this pleasure spot as this summer. This should follow out my former arguments that the force should be increased at once and some one given due authority during Marshal Hogan's absence to take charge of the whole city and administer affairs as they see fit. However, I understand such a move is on foot and that as soon as the legal phases can be looked up several appointments will be made.

That Garbage.
I have noticed in several localities in the down town district peculiar smells which seemed to emanate from the alleys in the rear of stores. Upon investigation I discovered in several places merchants had placed waste paper in their garbage cans and then lighted them. This of course caused the refuse to smoulder for some time after the paper was burned and while both dangerous from a point of fire protection is also very dangerous from a sanitary standpoint. There is some work to the health officer or some city official who has charge of these alleys. It is a case of carelessness of course, and one of which the store owner is ignorant. It doubtless being the work of a clerk who did it to save time. However, it can be soon remedied. Care of these alleys is an important feature of the city's welfare and should not be neglected.

The Museum.
I saw an article a few days ago in the Gazette which advocated the establishment of a city museum. The formation of a Museum Society or Historical Association. I did not pay much heed at first but on questioning several members of the library board indirectly through friends I found that such a collection could be easily housed in the Carnegie Library. I also learned that a nucleus to such a collection is in the Museum room at the High School and that possibly this might be turned over to the room which might be arranged for in the library. The idea seems to us to be an excellent one, and one worthy of a good deal of consideration. If I might suggest that those persons who are interested in such a subject talk with Mr. Skavlen of Judge Field of the Library board, some arrangements might be made, a meeting called and an association whose object would be to establish and care for such a room be formed.

Riding On Sidewalks.
I would like to make a decided protest to the city officials and the Mayor regarding the enforcement of the ordinance which prohibits the riding of bicycles on the sidewalks. This is a wise provision and one which should be enforced. There is no question that it is violated every day by some of our leading business men, but this is no reason why it should not be enforced. The laws are made for rich or poor. If it prohibits a man whose occupation is that of a day laborer from riding home from work on his bicycle using the sidewalk in place of the road it also prohibits a banker, a lawyer or any professional man from doing the same thing. Mayor Hutchinson will have a hard time if he is to see every ordinance that is on the city statute books enforced but this bicycle law should be one of the first taken up and made effective. It should not be necessary to warn citizens to keep the laws they should do it themselves.

The Depots.
I am called a grumbler and a kicker but I would like to say one word of praise which should discredit my reputation as a kicker. When a passenger alights at either of our depots he is greeted by the park like appearance and neatness of the station and station yard. It is fresh and green and very refreshing after a dusty trip on the cars. Things like these give the visitor a pleasant idea of the city and if every individual keep up the decoration we might pass for a city of beautiful streets and parks.

AMONG THE WORLD'S WORKERS

News Notes From Various Sources of Great Interest to the Workman.

NEW JERSEY BUREAU OF STATISTICS

Representatives of 10,000 organized workers on the railroads in the territory between Chicago and Buffalo are preparing their demands similar to those recently granted to all the trainmen and engineers West of Chicago.

The New Jersey Bureau of Statistics gives recent data regarding the production of machinery in that State. The greatest number of persons employed at any time during the fiscal year 1893 was 19,442, an average of a little over 175 to each establishment. The smallest number was 14,329, an average of almost 151 employees. The total sum paid in wages not including salaries persons, was $9,365,484, and the average yearly earnings of wage workers in the industry was $507.52, an increase of $23.16 over those of the previous year.

There are over 100 unions affiliated with the Central Labor Council at Cincinnati, O.

The Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners now has 1,701 unions chartered.

The glass blowers of New Jersey some time ago notified the Governor of that State that they propose to contest the new child labor law of that State, and the reason given by them is that they cannot run their factories at a profit without using boy helpers.

Last month the British collieries employed 480,466 work people, the pits worked an average of 4.84 days a week. The number employed was 2 per cent greater than a year ago.

The membership of the International Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen has increased 25,000 in the last two years.

JOINED IN WEDLOCK

Murray-Nichols

On Tuesday, June 21, at St. Joseph's church in Edgerton, Rev. Father Italian celebrated nine o'clock Mass which united Miss Ida A. Murray and Andrew J. Nichols as man and wife. Only the relatives and a few friends witnessed the impressive ceremony.

The bride was most becomingly attired in a gown of champagne silk with hat to match and carried white carnations.

After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride's parents, where a sumptuous three course dinner was served. The guests were waited upon by the Misses Mayme Dooley, Lizzie Cunningham, Laura Dooley and Minnie Burns. The bride needs no introduction to her large circle of friends who by her charming ways and modest manners has become a universal favorite.

The groom is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Nichols and is a thrifty young farmer in the town of Porter. The young couple were the recipients of many beautiful wedding gifts which were given them by their many relatives and friends as a reminder of the occasion.

GOOD NEWS FOR MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS.

How often do we see a naturally beautiful face marred by wrinkles, black-heads, blotches and pimples, caused in the majority of cases by inactivity of the pores of the skin? These minute openings fail or are unable to perform their natural functions, hence the skin is disfigured.

We are pleased to say that the new remedy Paracamp makes the skin soft, smooth and healthy, by creating a natural activity in the pores.

When applied, Paracamp opens the pores, stimulates circulation, removes congestion and any inflammation by inducing perspiration. It draws out the impurities and removes black-heads, pimples, blotches, etc., in a perfectly safe and sure manner.

If applied freely to the face twice a day, morning and night, and rubbed in well, then covered with a hot towel for two or three minutes, it will not only cool and soothe but remove the troubles and impart a healthy peach-bloom glow to the skin that will please even the most particular woman.

Paracamp positively does not contain anything that will injure even the most delicate skin. It is a clean, safe, cooling, soothing, application that every mother and daughter can use every day in the year with pleasing and satisfactory results.

A trial will convince you. So get a bottle of Paracamp to-day from your druggist, if it fails to do what we claim, go back to your druggist, the man you know, and get your money. We guarantee every bottle to give satisfaction. Sold only in 25c, 50c and $1.00 bottles. The Paracamp Company, Louisville, Ky., U. S. A. FOR SALE BY BADGER DRUG CO.

Newbro's Herpicide

VACATION TIME. Vacation time should bring rest, recreation and comfort; and comfort of the solid and pleasing variety means no high collar, no stiff hat and itching scalp. It is for this last discomfort that Newbro's Herpicide becomes a summer necessity, as it stops itching of the scalp and Pricely Heat almost instantly. Take Herpicide with you on your vacation.

SCALP WARNING. Itching of the scalp is not so much a punishment for past neglect as it is a warning for the future. It shows, almost conclusively, that the vine-like, microbe growth that causes dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair has entered the sebaceous glands and unless this growth is stopped and kept out of the scalp, baldness will follow.

IT IS CONTAGIOUS. It was Prof. Dana, (ask your doctor about him) who first pointed out that the true cause of hair loss is a germ or microbe that lodges in the scalp where it causes dandruff. Being of microbe origin the disease is necessarily contagious but Dr. Sabouraud has recently called attention to the highly contagious nature of dandruff, and the necessity of constant watchfulness to avoid it. Kill the dandruff germ with Herpicide.

UNSTERILIZED PUBLIC HAIR-BRUSHES, says Dr. A. Carls, are to blame for most of the baldness that is prevalent today. He further states that, "baldness begins in the young." By this he means that the germ that causes the disease is planted in the scalp of young men and that sometimes years elapse before the destruction is complete.

WILL NOT GROW HAIR. Newbro's Herpicide is a "Hair-Saver." It will not grow hair—nature does this—but by destroying the enemies of hair health, it enables the hair to grow as nature intended—except in chronic baldness. Save your hair with Herpicide. Wonderful results follow its use.

HOT WEATHER TROUBLES. During hot weather the minute sudatory glands of the scalp are called upon to perform an extra amount of labor. The perspiration that exudes in increased quantities must be handled promptly as it carries out poisonous matter that would otherwise clog up the pores of the scalp. Incomplete elimination of refuse matter produces a hot and feverish condition of the scalp, familiarly known as Pricely Heat, for which Herpicide gives immediate relief. Ladies will find Herpicide indispensable. It contains no grease, will not stain or dye. It is an exquisite hair dressing that COOLS, COMFORTS AND DELIGHTS.

SATISFIED CUSTOMERS. "I wish to say that Herpicide is giving my trade better satisfaction than anything I have sold for dandruff and falling hair and is selling three bottles to one of all the other so-called 'cures'." I can cheerfully recommend it to my trade.

(Signed), FRITZ FURCH, Milwaukee, Wis.
A. WAUKESHA, WISCONSIN — DOCTOR WRITES:—

"I consider Newbro's Herpicide a valuable remedy for diseases of the scalp."

VERDICT OF THE PARTY.

The republican national convention in session June 22, 1904, adopted by unanimous vote, the following sentiment, contained in the report of the committee on credentials, and offered by said committee after a thorough investigation of the Wisconsin contest:

"Your committee report it to be their final judgment and unanimous decision that the convention which elected John C. Spooner, Joseph V. Quarles, Joseph W. Babcock and Emil Baensch, as delegates-at-large, together with their alternates, was the regular convention of the republican party in Wisconsin."

This is the highest authority in the party, and the decision ought to satisfy every loyal republican in the state.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

The man who has money might rest if he would.
And the man who has none, he might if he could.
But never, till manhood has gone out of style,
Will the man who's a man want to rest all the while.

W. H. Wilson, in Four-Track News. This little couplet expresses a sentiment which is true and yet misleading. There are two classes of people in the world, and both are well represented. The people who have money, and the people who have none. The notion is quite popular with some people that "the rich are growing richer and the poor poorer," but this is not the case.

It is true, however, that thrift and economy contribute to savings and and this kind of riches add to accumulations every year, but when a man is as poor as poverty, there is no way for him to add to his stock of poverty, except as age incapacitates him for work.

The man who has money and the man who has none, represents, as a rule, the difference between the man who saves and the man who squanders. There is no so much difference between the earning capacity of men, as there is in their saving capacity.

In every industry as well as every line of business are found an army of men whose wages are practically the same. One clerk on a salary of $300 after ten years of faithful work owns his home and an interest in the business, while his comrade at the next counter equally faithful and energetic, never knows what it is to own $50. Both men are honest and both enjoy the confidence of their employer, but one practices economy while the other does not.

Two men work together at the same bench. Both are skillful mechanics and they are seldom idle. One has a bank account and money at interest while the other is always a month behind in his grocery bill. There is no difference in the earning capacity of these two men, but there is all the difference in the world in their saving capacity.

A young man, in a western city, applied for a position in a department store ten years ago. He was put to work at $5.00 a week and after ten years, is in the same employ at $75 a month, but he always has money, owns a block of stock, and is manager for the concern.

This class of men are liberally represented in every community. They are good men who combine with ordinary ability, thrift and economy, which always means successful accumulation. They are not aided by inherited wealth, and are strangers to speculation. Every dollar possessed is a hard earned dollar, which they enjoy by the right of clear and undisputed title.

When the age limit comes to this class of men they have no occasion to worry. They have long been recognized as conservative citizens, enjoying the confidence of the community, and when the days of activity are passed, their wants, which have never been extravagant, do not exceed their means, and they have the satisfaction of knowing that life has not been a failure.

Arrayed against this class of men is a still larger class who live from hand to mouth. Some of these men are engaged in business, but they barely manage to make a living, and are as certain to fall as time is to advance.

More of them are clerks or office men. Money comes easy and goes easier. They are just as well off on $10 a week as they would be on $50 for long continued habits of extravagance induces them to spend every dollar as fast as earned.

A still larger class are engaged in industrial pursuits. They are good workmen, but a dollar in the pocket Monday morning would be an incentive to patronize the nearest saloon at noon and treat the crowd. There is no philosophy about their methods, and less thought given to the future. Money was made to spend, and they propose to assist in the performance. As time advances this class of men also reach the age limit, and they make up the most pitiable class in existence. An old man, who has passed the age of activity, and entered the age of enforced idleness, without a dollar, dependent upon children, or friends, or possibly the public for a livelihood, is an object lesson which every young man can study to good advantage.

Many solutions are offered, now-a-days, to the labor problem, and the spirit of unrest was never more pronounced than it is today.

Organized labor representing less than one tenth of the labor of the country attempts to dictate, not only wages, and the number of hours which shall constitute a work day, but who shall be permitted to work as well.

There is something radically wrong about the whole proposition, and the basis for the wrong is founded in the fact that the agitator and wailing delegate invariably belong to the class of men who never have a dollar which they can call their own. They have nothing at stake except their salary, and this goes as fast as received.

Their enthusiastic followers, as a rule, belong to the same class. Intimidation and threats sometimes induce thrifty workmen to join the ranks, but their allegiance is never strong.

The labor question will settle itself when men learn to appreciate the value of money. The wealth of this country is largely distributed among men of moderate means, who have accumulated by earnest and intelligent effort, little by little until a competency was acquired.

It is not the product of special favor or unusual opportunity for it has been gleaned from ordinary channels by ordinary men, and where every man was his brother's equal. Work and save and the problem of success will solve itself, with contentment and happiness thrown in.

ADVERTISING DON'T SELL GOODS.

Merchants frequently complain that advertising don't pay. Some of them overlook the fact that the mission of advertising is not to sell goods but simply to attract prospective buyers to places of business. This it invariably does when properly handled.

After the customer has been brought to the door it remains for the merchant to do the rest. The failure to produce results and to retain trade, is not in the advertising but is due to a number of things that are frequently overlooked. The goods must back up the announcement. The store must be clean and attractive and the treatment courteous and attentive. The "Book-Keeper" relates the following scrap of experiences which is worth reading. It indicates a very good reason why the hardware man's advertising didn't pay.

"I was sitting in a fair-sized hardware store the other day," said a traveling salesman for a hardware jobbing house, "waiting for a chance at the proprietor, when I heard a woman endeavoring to make a purchase of a clerk. No, I don't mean that he was trying to make a sale to her. I stick to what I said. She evidently wanted to purchase a number of articles, and he seemed to be doing his best to prevent her.

"He was busy putting figures on a lot of tickets, and kept at it all the time she was talking to him. 'Do you keep those things for cleaning out sinks?' she asked. 'Do you mean a pot-scraper?' 'No, a thing to clean out sinks. One of my neighbors was telling me about them.' 'We may have them, but I have never seen any of them.' All the time he was at the tickets and never looked up at her.

"Are those mouse-traps?" she went on, pointing to a shelf. 'Yes,' he said. 'How much are they?' He named a price, still busy with his pen. 'She walked to a show-case and looked it over. Then she came back. 'Do you warrant your shears?' she asked. 'I was awfully sold on the last pair I got, but I didn't buy them here. Do you warrant yours?' 'Some of them we do, and some we don't.' He dipped his pen and began on a new lot. She stood still for a moment. Then she said, 'Is your silverware any less than it was before the holidays?' 'The boss was talking about marking some of it down, but I don't know whether he has or not.' Silence on both sides. Then he said, 'Do you want any of it?' 'Not unless it is a bargain.' Neither she nor I found out whether he had a bargain or not, for he never opened his head. She stood about in an uncertain manner, moved up towards the door, and in a little while gradually worked her way into the open air.

"Determined to find if he was actuated by any motive except bullheaded, jackassical stupidity, I said, 'Is her credit bad, or what's the matter with her?' Never saw her before in my life," he responded, as he went on with his tickets.

"No wonder a lot of fellows who start out in business end up in the poor-house. I wish I had been the owner of that store for about an hour. That clerk would have hit the pavement hard when he landed.—The Book-Keeper.

PRESS COMMENT.

Indianapolis Star: The people of Indiana will be pleased and proud over the distinction conferred on a citizen whom they have themselves chosen for a high place. He has represented the state in the United States Senate with dignity and wisdom, and no question exists as to his eminent fitness for the newer position.

New York Times: The Democratic leaders must understand that it is no weakened and demoralized foe that confronts them. They have this year to make an old-time fight against the Republican party united, disciplined, determined to win and perved for the struggle by its two master passions, the love of power and the love of money.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat (Rep.): The ticket will sweep the country. This is a Republican era. There is not the slightest chance for the Democracy in 1904 to shake off the load of discredit from its shoulders which it has been accumulating for many years. Geographically the ticket meets all the demands. It represents the East and the middle West, sections which have been giving the low tot the country for many decades.

Boston Globe (Dem): Roosevelt is Republicanism incarnate. He has caught its very breath and carried its principles to their logical conclusion; nor has he ever gone back on the party church. He has more genuine Republicanism in him than all the so-called leaders taken collectively. His Republicanism is of the West, not of the East. New England and the middle state may contribute votes and money; the West shall say who is who.

Philadelphia Press (Rep): The opposition will seek to shut their eyes to the record of Roosevelt's administration and try to make battle on a personal issue. Let the personal issue come. He is no decorous nobody, no negative character, no stuffed prophet. He is picturesque, ardent, wholehearted, the biggest boy on the playground, the biggest man in the battle. He has not only filled the measure of the presidency, but he has made himself the undisputed leader of his party.

New York World: President Roosevelt is greatly admired by the young, progressive and aggressive elements of his party. They like his daring, his dash, his contempt for precedents, his masterful way of berating the party bosses to his will, his defiance and subsequent placating of the Wall street magnates. Senator Fairbanks is the precise opposite of Mr. Roosevelt in character and temperament. Level, cautious, slow, conservative, he furnishes an admirable foil for the impetuous head of the ticket.

New York Sun: The lack of interest and the absence of enthusiasm warrant no hasty conclusions about the failure of Mr. Roosevelt's popularity or his weakness as a candidate before the people. He is immensely popular with an enormous number of American citizens. After all has been said concerning Charles Warren Fairbanks, we think time will show that his nomination adds strength to the ticket. The platform affords little encouragement to the assailing party.

Chicago Tribune: Briefly then, the republican campaign, in so far as it has yet taken shape, slimmers down to this: The Roosevelt administration has been so satisfactory that it should be kept in power. Protection is necessary to the welfare of the country, and when the time comes to readjust the Dingley tariff law, to the party of protection should fall the duty of readjustment. The Philippines are now enjoying peace and security and the largest civil liberty they have ever enjoyed, but they are not yet educated up to independence.

Chicago Chronicle: Roosevelt and Fairbanks are both able and honest men and they are positive characters. They cannot be beaten by compromise or by radicals or by lunatics. The one hope for the democrats lies in the possibility that they may be able to pit against them men who will be recognized as wiser and safer. There is a distinct popular revision against radicalism and spectacularism. If the democrats are to persist in the errors which have characterized them of late it will be comparatively easy for them to affront this sentiment and to form into Mr. Roosevelt's train practically all of the elements which gave Mr. McKinley his commanding strength before the people.

The nation is greater than the state, and the party is greater than any man connected with it.

FORESTERS' TEAM DRILLING HARD.

Getting Ready for the Fourth, Competitive Drill and St. Louis Fair.

The Foresters' team of the Modern Woodmen are now drilling three and four times a week on fancy maneuvering and marching. Among these is the formation of the letters M. W. A. They in conjunction with the Royal Neighbors drill team will march in the industrial parade the Fourth. S. M. Fisher has offered a watch chain for the best drilled man in the team. It is to be awarded sometime toward the end of July. The judges will probably be the two DeWolf captains. Possibly an exhibition drill will be given on the afternoon of July 4th.

VOTES COUNT NOW.

June Advance Subscriptions Earn More Votes Than Later. All June subscriptions which are paid in advance earn four votes for every cent paid. For instance, an old subscriber pays $1.25 for three months in advance, secures 500 votes. If he pays $2.50 for six months in advance he secures 1,000 votes, $5. for one year, secures 2,000 votes. New subscribers receive the same number of votes for their money. After July 2d the number is cut down to three votes for each cent paid, so that the need for rapid work is apparent. New subscriptions earn an additional premium in votes over and above the amounts given above—100 votes for three months, making total of 900 votes; 1,000 votes for six months, making total of 2,000 votes; 2,500 votes for one year, making total of 4,500 votes. If paid in advance before July 2d, it is readily noticeable that new subscriptions are the ones which count fast and are worth hustling for. The free week's outing proposition of the Gazette to be given to the most popular working man, at the St. Louis world's fair, is increasing in favor daily. Much work is being done by those whose names have already been enrolled and there will be considerable spirit developed as the time advances. The chance for a vacation without worry or cost or loss of time is worth making extra effort to secure and the person of untiring effort is bound to make a splendid showing.

Conditions of the Contest.

The popularity of the candidate is to be determined by the number of votes cast for him.

Premiums.—In addition to the regular schedule, new subscriptions will secure premiums when paid in advance as follows:

One month paid in advance 100 votes.
Three months paid in advance 400 votes.
Six months paid in advance 1000 votes.
One year paid in advance 2500 votes.

Regular Schedule.—Both old and new subscribers who pay in advance and for all coupons will receive the same number of votes—that is for every cent paid in advance during this contest.

4 votes until midnight, July 2d.
3 votes until midnight, July 30th.
2 votes until 10:00 p. m., August 31st.

I vote for all coupons clipped from the Gazette and delivered at this office before 10:00 p. m., August 31st. We will be square with you and you must be square with us. No person will be allowed to stop his paper and send to another name at the same address, neither will he be allowed to stop one day and start the next to claim premiums offered. New subscriptions are those not on our books June 4th. The subscription price to the Daily Gazette by carrier is 50 cents per month, $1.25 three months in advance, $2.50 six months in advance, $5.00 one year in advance. By mail in the country, four months $1 in advance, six months $1.50 in advance, one year $3 in advance. By mail outside of county one year $1 in advance.

When a man gets too large for his party there is only one thing for him to do, and that is to get out. The Governor of Wisconsin appears to belong to this class.

TALK OF A LOCK AT INDIAN FORD

DISCUSSION OF OLD PROJECT HAS BEEN RENEWED.

BOAT CLUB PLANS MEETING

During Early Part of Next Week to Take Up Matter—Ft. Atkinson Willing to Cooperate.

On an evening during the early part of next week a meeting of the Janesville Boat club and all others interested in the navigation of the Rock river with small craft will be called by President A. C. Kent to take up the project of securing a lock at the Indian Ford dam that will open a sea-way for pleasure-boats from Janesville to Lake Koshkonong. For years there has been talk about such an undertaking and the boat club of Ft. Atkinson which numbers thirty or more launch owners has repeatedly offered to meet the Janesville men half way in the expense. Until very recently however the matter has been lying dormant.

Interest at Koshkonong. F. F. Pierson and other members of the boat club are again agitating the question. They have with them in addition to the boat club of Ft. Atkinson the property owners living on the lake. On a conservative estimate last year, when the water was abnormally high during the summer, the farmers sustained an aggregate loss of over $1,000. Their meadows were flooded and the hay could not be harvested and was in most cases a total loss.

Chute Taken Out. Relief to them, it is said, might easily have been afforded had it not been for the fact that the chute which was formerly a part of the Indian Ford dam had been dispensed with and filling put in front of it in such a manner that it could not be opened. More or less bitterness toward the dam owners was expressed at the time and not a few mutterings and threats to destroy the structure were heard. Whether right or no, the property owners maintained that the permanent closing of or failure to maintain such a passage-way for surplus water was a clear violation of the law.

Lock to Replace Chute. The proposition the launch owners are now considering is to build a lock sixteen feet wide in that portion of the dam where the chute was formerly located. They estimate that such a lock which would accommodate two boats at a time and could be operated by hand, would cost in the neighborhood of $2,500. They argue that in operating the lock the loss of water would be a negligible quantity and that during the spring and at other seasons when the water should be at a high level the lock could be used as a chute. For, at these times none of the pleasure boats would be navigating the stream or lake. The club members have not consulted with Captain Norcross, the present owner of the dam, regarding the project but some of them think that he will be willing to co-operate with them.

Lake Would Be Accessible. If the project is carried through some money will also have to be spent in removing some of the boulders and diverting the river into a channel on one side of the river for some distance below the dam. The weeds in the river and lake are not serious obstacles to navigation and the opening up of a waterway that would make the big body of water more accessible to Janesville could not fail to benefit the city. A suburban summer resort that can be easily reached is about the only thing lacking to complete the city's perfect contentment and self satisfaction.

PROTECTION FOR A HUNDRED DOGS

ISSUE OF LICENSE TAGS HAS PASSED CENTURY MARK.

A VERY HEATED ARGUMENT

Between a Man Who Was Threatening to Take the Law in His Own Hands and Indignant Neighbor.

"Well, I'm going to pay for my dog and then you can just gamble that the neighbors have got to come to time. There are a lot of dogs hanging around my premises that ought to be killed off—good for nothing 'cept to come around and fight with Nero—you bet I'll fix 'em if they ain't tagged."

"Going to take the law in your own hands, air yet?" questioned a bystander. "Mebbe you think any fellow can go out and shoot any dog he finds hanging round without a license. You just remember that you ain't poundmaster and what's more you ain't going to be if I have anything to say about city politics and I guess I'll have something."

One Hundred Pay Up. There was a great stream of citizens in the clerk's office this morning anxious to secure the little brass tags that are to safeguard their pets from harm. Otto Krontz was the largest buyer, paying for four licenses and tags. Many others paid for two. At eleven o'clock a total of one hundred and one canines had been licensed to roam on the streets of the city.

The dog catchers and the poundmaster have not yet been appointed but this will be done very soon. After that it behooves the owner of untagged canines not wearing the passport to look out. The proportion of people who care for dogs and are willing to make some sacrifice rather than hurt with them is certain to be large. The list of those who have secured licenses is as follows:

Hot weather failed to put a damper on dances last evening. Despite the warm weather about thirty couples enjoyed a private dance at the East Side Odd Fellows hall last evening. The function was a return dance for the last year party given last winter by "the ladies of the Jolly Twenty-four" or the mysterious "J. D. N." club. A SOLDIER OF COMMERCE

By JOHN ROE GORDON

Copyright, 1902, by F. H. Tombs

As he turned to leave he signaled to Delnikoff that he wanted to speak privately with him. After a dance Delnikoff joined Jurneff in the smoking room.

"My dear prince," said Jurneff, with effusiveness, "I am pleased to congratulate you. After your promotion to win happiness also. Have you gained your ambition?"

"You are giving me riddles. What do you mean?"

"I was under the impression that you were in love with my niece."

"I adore her. Who could do otherwise?"

"The governor is much interested in your little affair, as I am myself. To tell you the truth, my niece is very capricious. Tomorrow she may be unwilling to have anything to do with you. Tonight she seems to share your infatuation. The governor, as you know, likes a little sensation of a pleasing kind. He would like the pleasure and privilege of announcing your betrothal at the supper."

"With all my heart. He may announce it a thousand times. The question rests with the little lady."

"Go ask her. I wager a hundred rubles you will not find her unwilling."

Jurneff turned on his heel and walked away, and Delnikoff, with a fast beating heart and feverish pulse, sought Alma.

"This waitz?" she asked.

"No—I could not wait—I must speak with you. Come to the conservatory."

He led her to a quiet nook shaded with palms.

"Alma," he said breathlessly, taking her hands, "I love you! You know I love you. I have loved for this past year, believing that you hated me, and now to find you do not I am overjoyed. The governor wishes to announce our betrothal. Will you consent?"

"I love you! You know I love you," said Jurneff. "Oh, my darling one, let us make—let us make this ball the most memorable one. I'll be here. Will you consent?"

She toyed with her fan.

"I like you, prince. I have been kept in a prison for a year, and now, to find myself with this freedom, I feel like a bird let loose. I feel like making up for all the long days I have spent brooding over things I could not control. And now the time has come. I cannot resist. I want a good—"

No One But Yourself if You Don't Get Well When Sick.

All we can do is give advice. Of course that's easy. But our advice is really worth a little more to you than most people's, for we offer to give you the first bottle of our medicine free, if it fails to help you. We could not afford to do this unless our medicine was good. Such an offer, on the wrong kind of medicine, would put a merchant prince in the poor house. Dr. Miller's Nervine, however, as years of experience have proved, is a medicine that cures the sick.

Those whom it cannot benefit—less than one in ten thousand—we prefer to refund their money.

All we ask of you is to try Dr. Miller's Nervine for your complaint. If you suffer from sleeplessness, nervous exhaustion, dizziness, headache, muscular twitches, melancholy, loss of memory, weak stomach, poor blood, bilious troubles, epilepsy, St. Vitus' Dance, etc., we will guarantee to benefit you or refund your money.

You are the doctor.

"My son Bert, when in his 17th year, became subject to attacks of epilepsy, so serious that we were compelled to take him out of school. After several physicians had failed to relieve him, we gave Dr. Miller's Nervine a trial. Ten months' treatment with Nervine and Live's Pills restored our boy to perfect health."—MR. JOHN S. something real scandalous. You do wild things sometimes."

"Perhaps. But is our betrothal at a governor's ball not lark enough?"

"Oh, that is tame! What a splendid uniform you have, prince—Alexis! May I not call you Alexis? It is so much shorter than Delnikoff."

"Call me anything—only love me."

He was oblivious of the fact that he was at a public function. He played his arm around her and pressed her to him. She did not resist.

"Oh, this is tame love-making. I want to have some great ending to this night. I feel—oh, I am half wild, I suppose."

"Let the governor announce our betrothal, and you shall do anything, have anything, you wish."

"Anything! I am so stricken with your uniform that I would like to have one like it. Can I not be on your staff?"

"Oh, Alma! That would be ridiculous."

"I know it. That is why the idea attracts me. I want to do something ridiculous—something unconventional—while I have this lovely hour of freedom. You are always free. You do not understand."

"What do you want to do?"

"Wear your uniform and inspect the prison."

"You inspect prisons? Why, you live in one!"

"I know. I live in the main building, but I have never yet looked into a cell. I have heard stories of all sorts of cruelty, and yet those who have been in the dungeons say there is no cruelty. I want to see for myself."

"Well, I will take you with me when I go."

"The colonel would not consent. He forbids us to enter the prison portions of the place. I want to go tonight, and I want to be you—Alexis. I want to be the inspector general of prisons for an hour."

He looked at her in bewilderment. Her eyes were brilliant. A flush came to her cheek and went again, leaving it white. Her bosom rose and fell. She let it rest against the breast of the prince.

"Such an absurd impossibility to ask!" he said. "You would be unwell."

"No, I would not. Speak to the colonel. Tell him you and I are going somewhere—anywhere—to talk and arrange matters for the betrothal. He will tell the governor, and we can go unmolested. I have set my heart on it, Alexis. You say you love me and that I can do anything. I am willing and must have my way."

"But how can you get my uniform?"

"Are you not a guest of the governor? You have other uniforms. Go put one on, bring this with you and wear a great cloak that covers you. We will go to the prison, and in my own room I can put on your uniform. Then you shall be my staff officer, and we will go and inspect the prison."

"It would cost me my sword if it was discovered. But you cannot be serious—you, a refined Russian girl, to don the uniform of an officer and go masquerading in a prison?"

"But can't you see? It is the oddity, the capriciousness, the very wildness and wickedness, that appeal to me. Had you been caged a year you would fight a duel for the mere exhilaration."

"Well, if you must have your way, you must. I will go and tell Colonel Jurneff that we are going to seek a quiet spot to talk and that you have almost given your consent to the announcement of our betrothal."

"Tell him I have, since you will do as I ask." And he kissed her rapturously.

"God help me through!" she murmured after Alexis had gone. "It is my life or his. I am willing to lose mine for him."

HOO-HOO BUILDING IS BURNED

Fire in Lumbermen's House at the World's Fair Imperils Others.

St. Louis, Mo., June 25.—The House of Hoo-Hoo, built by the lumbermen of the United States, in the world's fair grounds, was destroyed Friday by a fire, which imperiled a number of the state buildings surrounding it. So quickly did the flames spread through the Hoo-Hoo building that five persons on the second floor were forced to jump from the windows into a tree to save themselves. The burning shingles were blown onto the roofs of the Texas, German, Oregon and Mines and Metallurgy buildings, and the fire department had a lively struggle to prevent a conflagration. The Hoo-Hoo building was finished off in many kinds of fine and expensive lumber, and there were specimens of rare woods which were valued highly. Thirty black cats were burned to death. The total loss is placed at $50,000.

EFFECTS OF COLD STORAGE

Prof. Wiley Begins Another Series of Food Experiments.

Washington, June 25.—Having concluded his investigation of the effects of chemical preservatives upon various food products, Prof. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry in the department of agriculture, will now investigate the methods of preservation through the medium of cold storage or sterilization. This work, now being organized, is not to be concluded for at least another year. It is Dr. Wiley's theory that certain classes of food deteriorate after being preserved for a certain length of time, no matter what method is used. He expects to prove by his experiments that under no circumstances should food be preserved for more than one year.

Letter to Mr. M. E. Becker.

Janesville, Wis.

Dear Sir: Let's talk it right out before folks; there's nothing to hide in your business or mine; if there is, we'd better hide ourselves.

We are in trade to make money; so are you. We make it by saving our customers' money; so do you. Our object, in trade, is to save your customers' wood from rotting and iron and steel and tin from rusting; yours the same.

We work for thousands of property owners; you for a few. We can do some things that you can't do; we have the facilities. You can do some things that we can't; you are there. Let us work together; be faithful to one another. We can serve our customers better by working together and being faithful to one another.

Your dollar, put into our paint, will paint more feet than in any other way; and the paint will last longer. This saves you money, and saves your customers' money. That's all there is in our whole business.

Yours truly
